SLEEP, BABY, SLEEP.

Over the sea a lady came,
Sleep, sleep, sweetly sleep.
Night was the beautiful lady's name,
Sleep, sleep, sleep.
Her eyes like two stars shone soft and bright,
Her voice like the breeze's murmur light,
Kind and gentle and lovely night;
Sleep, baby, sleep.How tender her love for each little one,
Sleep, sleep, sweetly sleep.
She softly called when the day was done,
"Sleep, sleep, sleep."
"Dear little children," I heard her say,
"You must be tired now. Stop your play
And come with me to dreamland away.
Sleep, baby, sleep.""Shut your eyes if you want to go,
Sleep, sleep, sweetly sleep.
Safe in my arms I'll carry you so,
Sleep, sleep, sleep.
Over the ocean flying fast,
Earth with its cloud and storm is past.
Here is the beautiful land at last;
Sleep, baby, sleep.""Such a wonderful, happy land,
Sleep, sleep, sweetly sleep.
Children, I've found a hand,
Sleep, sleep, sleep.
Flowers more gay than our beautiful spring,
Music more full than our birds can sing.
Sunshine and fairies and every bright thing,
Sleep, baby, sleep."

A NOVEL INDUSTRY.

How One Man Makes a Living by Buying Canadian Money.

All through that part of the country (northern Ohio) there is a discount of 20 cents on every Canadian dollar. Of course Canadian money is not as much in circulation as is the legal tender of the United States, but there was enough for his purpose. A man advertised in all surrounding country towns that he would redeem Canadian money for 90 cents on the dollar. It was some time before he had any results from this advertising. It was like the man who stood on London bridge at midnight and offered to give away sovereigns. People laughed at him. The farmers were shy. They thought it was a swindling game of some kind and left him severely alone. One day a man came in with $10 Canadian money. It was of all shapes and sizes from the 5 cent piece that looks like a dime to a dollar bill drawn on the Bank of Montreal. If he had spent it, he could have secured $9 worth of goods for it. My man gave him nine big silver dollars in United States money for it. Before the week was out he had exchanged United States dollars for $250 worth of Canadian money. This would give him a profit of $25 wherever Canada money is as good as our own.

From that time on the business gradually increased, until today he averages about $150 a week. Instead of having the farmers come to him he goes to them and buys their accumulated savings of Canada coin. They are all his customers and know him well in the five years they have done business together. "Are you not afraid of competition in your business in case it becomes generally known?" asked. "No," said he. "I can see it requires a comparatively large amount of money as a starting capital. Then I have to have men in the frontier cities who will give me United States money for my Canada currency. I generally take a trip twice a year to Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Buffalo, where I make these exchanges. All this requires years of preparation, and no outsider could step in and make exchanges with my patrons, as they have all the money they can handle now, even at a 2 per cent commission on the dollar."—Buffalo Express.

The Successful Man.
"The successful man," said Mr. Gratebar, "is by no means helpful to himself alone. He helps a great lot of other people as well. There isn't a healthy, vigorous, energetic, self-reliant, successful man whose example does not breed the same qualities in others, and personal contact with such a man is an active stimulant and direct aid to success. He awakens in us new strength and arouses ambition. He winds us up and sets us going. See to it, my friend, that you don't run down."—New York

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

The invention of Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., has, during the past thirty years, made a record in the cure of bronchitis, throat and lung diseases that fairly entitles it to outrank all other advertised remedies for these affections. Special mention is manifested its potency in curing consumption of the lungs. Not every case, but we believe

of all cases of consumption, in all its earlier stages, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been examined by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced against a rival.

"Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.

FOREIGN LEGATIONS.

The United States sends Ministers to all foreign countries. These Ministers some of whom are paid large salaries out of the United States Treasury. Ambassadors Bayard, who represents the United States at the Court of St. James, has been a subject of general comment recently because of his utterances at public assemblies in England, and a resolution to impeach him was introduced in the House of Representatives recently for political effect.

As these American legations in foreign countries are quite expensive luxuries, why not abolish them? They are a relic of medieval times. They were established by European monarchies which could get no information from neighboring States, except that furnished by special envoys. There were no mails, no telegraphs, no railroads in those days, and one nation was liable at any time to send an invading army into an adjoining kingdom for purposes of conquest and plunder. Now all that is changed. There is telegraphic communication between all civilized nations and much of the diplomatic correspondence is conducted direct between the ministers of foreign affairs by wire or mail. The refusal of Lord Salisbury to submit the Venezuelan boundary dispute to arbitration, as suggested by the United States, which is now giving rise to much war talk, was sent from London to Washington by mail direct from Lord Salisbury to our Secretary of State. As this, the most important correspondence between Great Britain and the United States, since the Mason and Slidell affair in 1861, was entrusted to the mails and not sent through Ambassador Bayard, it clearly indicates that in these days there is no necessity whatever for American legations at European courts. There are United States Consuls at every port who see that American citizens are protected in their rights as such, and ambassadors, though doubtless very ornamental on State occasions at foreign capitals, are entirely useless and can be dispensed with by the United States.

Congress, instead of considering buncombe resolutions to impeach Ambassador Bayard, should pass an act abolishing the Foreign Ministry system.

WILL THERE BE WAR?

Just now the voice of a great many people in the United States is for war. Senator Chandler of New Hampshire, who has been spoiling for a fight for some time, has introduced a bill appropriating $100,000,000 for fortifying the sea coast and northern frontier of the United States, and a similar bill has been introduced in the House by Representative Grout of Vermont. The Senators talked seriously of amending the Hitt bill by incorporating in it an enactment of the Monroe doctrine and increasing the appropriation to $250,000,000. The Senators are unanimous in supporting President Cleveland's interpretation of the Monroe doctrine and its application to the controversy between Great Britain and Venezuela.

Southern papers, such as the Atlanta Constitution and the Richmond Dispatch, say when the country needs soldiers the South will furnish its share, and more than its share. As the law prohibits ex-Confederate soldiers from serving in the military forces of the United States, Senator Hill of New York has introduced a bill to repeal the prohibitive act.

The whole country, North and South, East and West, seems to be putting on war paint, still there is only a remote probability that there will be any serious trouble over the Venezuelan question. If the Commission, which the United States will doubtless send to Venezuela, should upon investigation find that Great Britain claims no more territory than it is entitled to, that will end the controversy so far as the United States is concerned. If, on the other hand, the Commission should report that Great Britain is imposing upon Venezuela then the British Government or the United States Government will have to back down or fight.

Though the sentiment in Great Britain, according to the London newspapers, is decidedly in favor of upholding the attitude assumed by Lord Salisbury, and the President's message is unanimously endorsed by the people of the United States, it is not likely that these two great nations will resort to arms to settle the title to a strip of land on the coast of Venezuela. England cannot afford to go to war with the United States, and while there is a strong war sentiment in both countries the controversy is much more likely to be settled by the pen than by the sword.

A MESSAGE ON FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

The President has sent another special message to Congress. This time it is on financial affairs. He recites what he stated in his regular message relative to the demand for gold upon the reserve fund, the issuance of bonds to supply the gold, etc., and says that a real and sensible cure for our recurring needs can only be effected by a complete change in our financial system. Pending that change the executive department will not relax its efforts nor abandon its determination to use every means within its reach to maintain before the world the credit of the United States.

States. In view, however, of the situation he ventures to express an earnest hope that Congress in default of the inauguration of a better financial system will not take a recess until it has by legislative enactment done something not only to relieve the apprehension that the resources of this Government do not afford a sure guarantee of its financial safety and soundness, but to reassure the world that with its factors and patriotism, and the ability of our citizens to meet under any circumstances every obligation the nation incurs, do not admit of doubt or question. He therefore asks of Congress such prompt aid as it alone has the power to give to make any sacrifice of public interest and public funds to prevent the impairment of the public credit.

In plain words the message means that the reserve is down to the danger point and the President calls upon Congress to do something to relieve the strain. This relief he expects before Congress adjourns for the holidays. He throws the responsibility upon the legislative branch of the Government, and if it fails to act he will doubtless issue bonds for more gold. Congress could, of course, relieve the strain on the Treasury by ordering the coinage of the silver now owned by the Government, but it is not likely to do that and will probably take a rest without doing anything.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

The Venezuelan Question—A Silver Vote in the Senate—The House Doing Nothing

WASHINGTON, December 20.—The Venezuelan bill, as amended by the Foreign Relations Committee, will read as follows:

"That the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be and the same is hereby appropriated for the expenses of a commission, to consist of three members to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to investigate and report to him the facts in regard to the divisional line between the Republic of Venezuela and British Guiana. Provided that section 2 of the act approved July 31, 1894, making appropriations for the legislative and judicial expenses of the Government, shall not apply to any commissioner appointed under the act."

The first silver vote in the Senate has just been taken on a motion to refer to the Finance Committee. Allen's silver bill directing an inquiry as to the advisability of opening the mints to free coinage in view of the strained relation over Venezuela. The motion was defeated; yeas, 24; nays, 38. The silver men voted no.

Senator Morgan secured the unanimous consent for the consideration of the Venezuelan bill and offered a Senate substitute for the House bill for the Venezuelan Commission.

After considerable discussion, the Senate, by a unanimous vote, laid the Committee's amendments on the table and adopted the House bill.

The House adjourned upon reassembling after recess which means that the holiday adjournment will not take place until to-morrow.

President Cleveland late this afternoon sent to Congress a message on the financial situation of the country and the alarming and rapid decrease in the gold reserve. He said that the trouble would continue to recur until the financial system was changed.

He said that American credit must be maintained at all costs. The message asks Congress to give such prompt aid as it alone has power to give to prevent the sacrifice of the people's interests and the public funds or the impairment of the public credit.

CARSON MINT SHORTAGE.

SECOND TRIAL OF JAMES HENEY—SIXTEENTH DAY.

Rushing to a Finish—Arguments of Counsel Concluded and the Case Goes to the Jury To-Morrow.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)

Carson, December 20, 1895. Andrew Mason in his testimony yesterday related his controversy with Professor Price at the Mint with regard to his testing, and expiring upon the mint acids and processes. I told him he could have the whole mint men and all, the rest of his life if necessary. He said he wasn't engaged for that. I was trying to keep him from making wrong statements and getting himself into trouble. In regard to Ernest Harris, the deposit meter, Mr. Price or anybody else, I can truthfully say that I have not tried to intimidate anybody in connection with my investigation of this mint shortage, but I would go for any man whom I thought had any hand in the making of that spurious metal, or the shortage in any respect.

LAST EVENING'S SESSION. The testimony of W. E. Morgan, Government Inspector at the settlement of 1893, was read to the jury, relative to the manner of making a settlement, and how conducted in all its details in regulation style. Mr. Morgan had to return East at the conclusion of the trial, and was excused from further attendance by the consent of lawyers on both sides.

Miss Hattie Humphreys, operator in charge of the Western Union telegraph office at Carson for the last five years, produced the registry book of the office showing that Heney received no telegram from his brother in Folsom, Cal., during August, 1893.

H. H. Beck—I own a buckboard and a sorrel horse. Don't remember meeting Heney with Derby and Boyle in Reno and being introduced by them and I did not take Heney to the Reduction Works. He got there himself with his gold business.

Marshal Humphrey—Had two subpoenas for Joseph Langevin at the other trial. On the 11th of November went to his house and was told he had gone to Pine Nut. Failed to find him until the morning after the jury was discharged, then I found him on the street.

William Langevin sworn—Reside at Lovelock, am 26 years old, son of Joseph Langevin, came home to Carson November 11 for my health and a vacation. Found Coffin and Torreyson in conversation in the front room with my father about the trial, about 10 o'clock in the evening. A couple of hours later on Barney Brule knocked and father got up and let him in. Brule asked if he had been subpoenaed, and he said no. Brule said he would be. Brule came in twice more during the night. I went down to the sheriff's office about 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning and met Brule who said he had something of importance for father but did not know where he was. I went back home and to bed. I saw no money paid to father, but Brule said he had $100 for him and father afterward showed me two $20 pieces.

Sunday evening, November 24th, Mr. Circe came to the house and was with father. I heard their conversation. He wanted father to keep out of the way as a witness in the Heney trial, for a money consideration. Next day I went to Circe for the money, and he paid $100. I called upon Woodburn Coffin and Torreyson afterward at times, relative to money in this connection. Subsequently Coffin and Torreyson were at the house for half an hour in conversation with father and I was present. He asked them if he was called upon to stand to testify as to receiving money for sending my brother Charlie away to Canada, what he should answer. They told him he had to tell the truth.

Father gave me $50 of the $100 I received from Circe and left next evening for California with $70 or $80 in my pocket. Don't remember about father wanting $1,000 more to go to Canada.

Mrs. Matilda Langevin sworn—Wife of Joseph Langevin. Corroborated evidence of son William. Before daylight on the morning of November 11th Barney Brule came to the house and brought $400 for my husband. I saw it counted out. William was in the next room. I sent a letter by my daughter to Circe for my husband. He was staying in the upper part of the house. He told me to send it. Didn't know it called for $1,000 till Circe told me afterward. My husband kept $50 of the $400 sent by Circe and I put it in a trunk for the good of the family. I told the officers and everybody that my husband was over at Incline, when he was concealed at the house, but I was not under oath then.

J. W. Spurgeon—I should judge that those shoe bars of melt 304 had been pickled, from appearance and sour taste. We pickle all the big fine silver bars, but not the shoe bars.

Ernest Harris—I pickled a shoe bar at the request of Arthur Raycraft recently. Don't know if this is the bar. (Whole melt No. 304 of fourteen bars shown.) I should judge from appearance and examination that some of them are pickled, but cannot accurately determine except in daylight.

At 9:30 court adjourned till 9:30 A. M. to-morrow.

Court met at 9:30 A. M. pursuant to adjournment, and Ernest Harris took the stand—Have carefully examined

WEATHER BULLETIN.

What Professor Foster Says We May Expect.

(By Prof. W. T. Foster.)

St. Joseph, Mo., December 20.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from December 20th to 25th, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about January 1st, cross the west of the Rockies country by the close of the 2d, the Great Central Valleys 3d to 5th and the Eastern States the 6th.

This disturbance will culminate the first period of moderate temperatures in January and following it will be about two weeks of low but fluctuating temperatures. Then again will come two weeks of moderate temperatures culminating in the highest temperatures about the 27th to the 28th, west of the Mississippi and 29th and 30th further east.

The warm wave will cross the west of the Rockies country about January 1st, the Great Central valleys the 3d and the Eastern States the 5th. The cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about January 4, Great Central valleys the 6th and the Eastern States the 8th.

This disturbance will not cause general precipitation, but will inaugurate a long period of heavy snows and rains which will average heaviest for January east of the Rockies and south of Denver, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Washington, extending to the Northern States the last of the month and in February.

By the close of February the whole United States will be in a good condition as to rainfall, but March will inaugurate a dry period for large portions of the country. April and May will cause serious drouths in places, to such an extent, at least, as to make it advisable not to put in certain crops for the drouth will surely make them unprofitable.

Other localities will have too much rain. The crop season of 1895 had a general deficiency of rain, but it will not be that way in 1896. Large sections will have too much, other large sections a deficiency, so that for the whole country about an average rainfall may be expected.

Arm Broken.

Mrs. W. D. Hardin of Steamboat arrived on the local yesterday morning, having suffered the fracture of her right arm above the wrist, and at once came to town for surgical aid. It seems that she was up on a step ladder attending to some work about her house when she slipped and fell, suffering the injury stated above. Some time ago the arm was broken above the elbow. Drs. Hogan and Thoma attended the sufferer and she returned home in the afternoon.

"Two years ago my little daughter Elsie, was afflicted with ulcerated sore eyes. I tried one of the best doctors in the city for about a year but her eyes seemed to grow worse. I had her treated by an oculist but his treatment did not benefit them. I then commenced to give the little one Hood's Sarsaparilla and after the first bottle I could see that there was great improvement. Elsie is now nine years old. DEADLY SHOTS FIRED BY THE SUN.

In One Instance an Innocent Man Was Sentenced to Be Hanged.

In a recent paper appeared an account of a strange accident in which a man was killed by the discharge of a gun while lying asleep on a lounge in his room, the weapon being discharged by reflected rays of the sun falling upon the cartridge chamber of the firearm.

Since the publication of the story a correspondent from New York, Pa. writes concerning the accident and refers to a similar case, in which, through the effects of a clever Cincinnati lawyer named G. C. Wallis, the person accused of murder and sentenced to be hanged
was set at liberty, the circumstantial evidence on which he was convicted being entirely exploded by a witnessed demonstration as to how the accident really occurred.

The York correspondent referred to volume 18 of The Criminal Law Magazine, page 607, on which a full account of the case appears. The case was that of the state of Tennessee against Avery, tried in Henry county, that state, and is one of the most remarkable in the history of criminal jurisprudence.

In June, 1887, Charles Ensley, the constable of the county, called on Avery, who was in his room while lying on a lounge, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The weapon which caused the death was a small rifle, sending a .32 caliber ball through Ensley's brain. No one was in the house at the time but Ensley. An empty rifle was found lying on a rack on a wall of the room in which the killing occurred, and the bullet fitted the tube.

Avery was arrested for the crime, as he was the only living close relative to Ensley, and by his death profited to the amount of about $100,000. Avery was tried, pleaded not guilty, but was convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to the supreme court and engaged Mr.
Wallis to defend him. The supreme court remanded the case back to the circuit court on technical errors. Two months were brought about, and then came the strangest part of the story.

The brilliant Wallis struck the keynote to the mystery. In August, 1891, he had the rifle loaded and hung on the wall. A white sheet with the form of a man marked on it was placed in exactly the position occupied by Ensley when lying asleep, and a heavy cut glass pitcher of water like the one found in the room was placed on the shelf above.
The temperature was 90 degrees in the shade, one of the hottest days of the year.

The pitcher acted as a sunglass, and the hot rays of the sun shining through the water were refracted directly on the cartridge chamber of the rifle.

Eight witnesses were in the room,
and a few minutes after 3 o'clock a puff of smoke issued from the rifle, and the bullet struck the forehead of the man in the exact location where Ensley was shot, and the theory of circumstantial evidence went to pieces. The incident, being witnessed and sworn to, readily explains itself to the jury. Cincinnati Liquor.

Smart Boy.
Mr. Arthur Roberts once had a lad in his service not overladen with aptitude.
One day his master said to the page:
"Did you tell that awful bore who called that I had gone to California?"
"Yes, sir," replied the boy. "I said
you started this morning."
"Good boy. What did he say?"
The boy's reply was charming.
"He wished to know when you'd return, and I told him I didn't think you'd be back till after lunch, sir!"—
London Tit-Bits.

During the middle ages reprisals were common. The vengeance taken for a brave defense of a town or castle was generally the hanging of the most prominent officers and men among the defenders.

ually going on in the human system. Hood's Sarsaparilla drives out

HORACE AND HIS GARDEN.

The Poet Loved the Country, Yet Moped
When He Was There.

All his life Horace had wished for a piece of land which contained a garden,
a stream and a cottage, and in the Sabine valley he found all three. To take a nap after his hard meal on the grass
by the stream was to him that exquisite combination of mental and physical ease which man is foolish to despise because it is an enjoyment within the reach of every other animal as well as of himself. Horace clearly considered both his Sabine farm and his villa at Tibur healthier than the capital, especially in the autumn, "when all fathers and mothers turn pale with fear for their children." It may be doubted if Rome was so exempt from malarial fever at that time as it is generally thought to have been. Once, when he had promised Romeans to be away only five days, he remained at Tibur through all the month of August, and he begs his "dear friend" if it would be too long, and well, to let him stay yet longer, and even pass the winter out of Rome by the seaside (he was probably thinking of Tarentum).

Yet was not there a spice of truth in the taunt which his servant Davus addressed to the poet, that when he had been too long in the country he moped to death? We are almost invited to suspect that there was, the town was, after all, the life of his life. One may be sure,
by the by, that the worthy Davus himself hated exclusion as much as any Italian servant does today. Tibur he may have endured, there he could gossip with the servants of other villas, but at the Sabine farm with whom could he have due chit-chat except with the steward—another martyr? By immortalizing the unending criticism of Davus, Horace shows that he was the first to or-serve that "no man was a hero to his walet."—Contemporary Review.

Venomous snakes are slow in doing mischief. The cobra di capello, the toy never uses them except to resent in-hissing violently, it darts on its victim,

who has notice to escape.
